1. About the schedule

The school records retention schedule has been drawn up in response to requests for assistance on recordkeeping from Hampshire schools. This guidance is intended for maintained schools, not academies.

The schedule contains guidelines on how long to keep records created and maintained by schools in the course of their business, and how those records should be disposed of at the end of their administrative life. Records may be held in any format, including paper, electronic (including databases), microform and audio-visual.

Disposing of records at the right time in accordance with clearly established policies will help schools to ensure they meet recordkeeping requirements set out in the Data Protection Act (DPA) 2018 and Freedom of Information Act (FOI) 2000, particularly the ICO Section 46 Code of Practice – Records Management.

2. How the schedule is arranged

The schedule is arranged by type of record. The ‘Retention Period’ specifies how long the record should be kept and the ‘Final Action’ describes how they should be disposed of. If records need to be kept for legal reasons, the relevant statute is cited in the ‘Legal Status’ column. If no legal status is given, the retention period is based on best practice, considering administrative, audit and legal requirements.

N.B. In the ‘Retention Period’ column, ‘current’ year’ refers to the current financial year, unless otherwise specified.

The column headed ‘DPA applies?’ indicates whether records contain personal information. Such records are subject to the Data Protection Act 2018 and should be stored securely, and safe from unauthorised access.

This schedule may need to be adapted to suit the requirements of your particular school. Hampshire County Council’s Records Management Service can offer advice as needed; contact details are given below.

3. What to do at the end of the retention period

Note re disposal: You may be aware of the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (IICSA). While this inquiry is being carried out, schools have been asked to retain records relating to children, or individuals who have worked with children, until further notice.

For more information, please see the letter from the Chair of the Inquiry to local authorities on the IICSA website: <https://www.iicsa.org.uk/key-documents/82/view/letter-to-local-authority-ceos.pdf>

Destroy

Where records have been identified for destruction they should be disposed of in an appropriate way:

- All paper records containing personal information, or sensitive policy information, should be disposed of as confidential waste. Contact County Supplies for advice on the availability of confidential shredding in your area (tel. 01962 826999). Details of local commercial shredding services can be found online.
- All confidential electronic records should be deleted securely from electronic systems, including databases. N.B. Simply deleting data is unlikely to be sufficient, as records that are no longer visible may still be recoverable; remember that back-ups will need to be destroyed too. Refer to HCC's Schools IT team at HantsITSchools@hants.gov.uk for more information.
- Non-confidential records should be bundled up and disposed of to a waste-paper merchant or recycled in other appropriate ways.

It is recommended that schools maintain lists of records which have been destroyed, giving file references, titles, dates of destruction and name of authorising officer. An Excel spreadsheet or other database format could be used for this.

Review

Records are marked for review in cases where there is no longer a statutory or financial requirement for retention but where the decision to destroy is not clear cut.

Assess the record's continuing administrative or historical worth. Consider keeping files that relate to:

- Major events or important developments in the life of the school
- Major policies and / or long-term strategies
- Claims (or possible claims) for compensation

You will likely dispose of:

- Routine papers and correspondence
- Papers that refer to events of short-term relevance and minor interest.

Records of historical value which are no longer required in school can be offered to Hampshire Archives and Local Studies (HALS) as a permanent addition to the county's archives. HALS are happy to advise on the possible historical value of records if you are unsure (see below).

Transfer records to Hampshire Archives and Local Studies (HALS)

Some records including log books, admission registers and managers' minutes, have been identified as worth keeping permanently for historical reasons. These are marked 'Transfer to HALS' and, ideally, should be transferred to HALS when they are no longer needed for administrative purposes. Where they continue to be retained in the school they should be looked after carefully, following the guidelines below about storage, display and handling of archival records.

Once records have been transferred to HALS they will form a part of the county's archives and will generally be held on 'permanent loan'. This means they are deposited with HALS indefinitely, are stored safely in our purpose-built strongrooms, but remain the property of the school. The records may be withdrawn on a temporary basis by the school, with written permission from the Head, but may not be removed by anyone else (advance warning of at least a week is desirable).

School records placed in the care of HALS may be consulted by the public in our supervised search room unless they contain sensitive or personal information which may relate to living persons (less than 100 years old). Records containing such information will be subject to access restrictions. The HALS catalogue, including descriptions of deposited school records, is available through Hampshire County Council's website so that anyone can see what is held with us. Any requests by the public to see restricted material will be dealt with on a case by case basis and will be referred back to the school if necessary.

If you intend to pass any material on to the historical archive, please contact HALS first to let them know roughly the type and quantity of material you have, and when HALS can expect it. Ask for the Accessioning Archivist. Items can be sent via the Hampshire County Council courier service, or delivered to HALS' rear entrance, approached via Station Hill.

4. Storage, display and handling of school records

These general guidelines on the storage, display and handling of archives should be followed to help ensure the long-term preservation of school records regarded as historically significant.

Keep documents out of direct sunlight and avoid extremes of temperature and humidity:

- For paper records a temperature of 13-20°C is ideal, with a relative humidity (RH) of between 35-60%. (RH is read by a hygrometer¹.)
- Audio tapes require cool, dry conditions (40-60% RH, 13-16°C).
- Try not to store records near radiators where the air will be too hot and dry.
- Records which do not need to be referred to regularly should ideally be stored in a room where staff are not required to work.

Ensure that storage is on well-ventilated shelving and that storage areas are kept clean

- Don't pack records together too tightly as lack of air flow encourages mould. Mould-affected items should be separated out.
- Ventilate storage rooms well.
- Keep storage areas clean, as dust and dirt can accelerate decay and encourage pests.

Use good quality storage materials

- 'Archival quality' packaging materials are free of acids and other chemicals which will make paper brittle and cause inks to fade. They are available commercially, and although expensive, need only be used for those items which are to be kept permanently. Names and addresses of some commercial suppliers are given at the end of this guidance note.
- If possible, use archive-quality boxes, made from rigid container board with non-rusting staples and well-fitting lids. Strong cardboard boxes lined with acid-free paper, and with a lid to keep out dust, are a cheaper alternative.
- Written records can be protected by wrapping them in archival quality paper or card. Photographs should be placed in clear polyester sleeves if kept loose, or mounted using photo corners if they are in an album. Alternatively, use good quality envelopes with the gummed flap removed, and card folders or large sheets of cartridge paper folded to size.
- For all records, use good quality fastenings, e.g. wide cotton tape, brass staples, brass paper clips, and plastic treasury tags. Number documents or pages, if necessary, in pencil only.

Use good inks and papers:

- When you are creating paper records which you know will need to be kept long term, use good quality permanent ink and acid-free paper if you can, and avoid ball point pens, particularly blue and red, which fade quickly.

Avoid the following, all of which are detrimental to your archives if they are to be kept long-term:

- steel pins and paperclips; plastic bags; photo albums using cheap PVC overlays and adhesives to secure photos; PVC wallets; sellotape; pink document tape; elastic bands.

Displaying and handling records always puts them at risk

- Displaying potentially valuable items leaves them open to the risk of vandalism or theft. Look after your archives at all times and display them only in lockable showcases. (HALS is able to lend lockable showcases free of charge, subject to availability.)
- Inks and colours can fade if exhibited in bright light for too long, and the spines and bindings of volumes can be weakened by prolonged use or opening in the same position. Aim therefore to display records away from direct heat and sunlight. Support volumes, ideally on cushions, so that they are not open too wide, using strips of clear polyester to secure pages if necessary. Never use sellotape, drawing pins or metal staples to fasten documents being displayed.
- If records are used in the classroom, keep control of them. Make sure you know what you have and where it should be when not in use. Ask those who borrow the records to handle them with care, to use only pencil when making notes from them, and to supervise their use at all times. Photocopied extracts from the records could be used as a substitute to protect originals from over-handling.
